

We Ended Up Lonely Tonight (written by Douglas Wesley Haines 1988 - © 2011 – All Rights Reserved)

I don't remember the times that we shared just the time where we said our goodbyes I don't remember all the faces you wore just the one with the tears in your eyes

Do you sometimes remember loving me sometimes remember just why
All the dreams that we planned seemed to slip through our hands and we've ended up lonely tonight

I've been asking myself over and over just why you're gone And I can't seem to decide if its something I said or something I didn't do right or something that we did wrong

Do you sometimes remember loving me
sometimes remember just why
All the dreams that we planned
seemed to slip through our hands
and we've ended up lonely tonight

I tried to remember us dancing together holding our hearts in our hands But I can't for the life of me tell you what happened its something I don't understand

Do you sometimes remember loving me
sometimes remember just why
seemed to slip through our hands
and we've ended up lonely tonight
